The Most Pressing Problems of Our Country Today

Or Problems of Country

Or Problems Ahead of India

Or India and Its Problem

Or Challenges Before India

Introduction:- India, officially the Republic of India, is the 7th largest country by area, the second largest country with over 1.2 billion people, and the largest democracy in the world. A large number of the Indians are a part of the rural population. The problems faced by India are mostly (but not all) the problems faced by these folks. □□□□

Problems Faced by India are Poverty and Inequality:- There is a vast □□□□□ is inequality □□□□□□□□ amongst people, (about 32% of our population is still under poverty line). Poverty □□□□□ and inequality stems □□□□ □□□□ from problems in our governance, and general lack of empathy in people. I think, we still do not aim for win solutions in our daily life. We still believe in win-loose situations, where all we care about whether we win or not. The win-lose kind of thinking leads □□ □□□□ to poverty and inequality in the end.

- Corruption Again, lack of empathy, bad governance causes corruption. Corruption is further reinforced due to poverty and inequality.
- Education and Infrastructure Problems- We have a huge population; we really need to scale up our systems (like housing, sewage, electricity, education, transport etc.) to a much better quality and quantity than there exists at the moment.
- Sanitation □□ □□□□□□ -Lack of proper sanitation is a major concern for the people of India. Statistics conducted by UNICEF has shown that only 31% of India's population is able utilize proper sanitation facilities as of 2008. It is estimated that one in every ten deaths in India is linked poor sanitation and hygiene.□□□□

Conclusion:- In conclusion, it is to emphasize that the Indian Government should realize that implementing □□□□ □□□□ industrial development policies by themselves will not be suffice. Drastic □□□□□ changes in rules are required. Only then, the problems of India will be solved.
